

Digimind is a Berlin-based Green and Deep Tech company supporting the packaging industry in fast development of novel, innovative and sustainable designs leveraging Digital Twin and Artificial Intelligence

Digimind is looking for support from a

Paid Internship – Life cycle assessment

What You'll Do

- Gather life cycle data for different packaging pathways and integrate the data into modeling efforts to assess the
- Support software team in integrating LCA tool to our SaaS platform
- Perform literature reviews, document data sources
- Perform analysis of data to quantify the environmental impacts such as global warming potential to understand how packaging pathways compare.

What We're Looking For

- Experience with lifecycle assessment and sustainability.
- Experience with lifecycle software packages
- Excellent analytical skills and knowledge of current approaches and industry best practices.
- Familiarity with renewable materials used in packaging or packaging generally
- Degrees/backgrounds of particular interest: engineering, science.
- Programming experience in one or more of Python, R, Julia.

If this sounds like you please email us at internship@digimindlabs.com including:

- CV and possible start date
- Your portfolio
- A few words about yourself and what you're looking for